Barum class learning

Thank you for the brilliant posters and information on Brazil. The children have loved sharing their learning with the class. We discovered more about Brazil, focussing on the climate. Barum class enjoyed drawing and labelling what they would pack if they were going on holiday there. We also sorted statements about weather and climate, using their reasoning skills to decide if the statement was about the UK or Brazil.

This week in English we have started our new text, 'The Big Book of Blooms' by Youval Zommer. We have enjoyed exploring the book and have identified the features and layout of the information pages. We have researched some facts about different rain forest plants and then reported about our plants to the class in the style of Sir David Attenborough.

In Maths we have been working on missing number calculations using the inverse operation to help us solve the missing number.

In Art this week, we drew a plant outline then divided it into sections and practised collaging in the style of Romero Britto.
