Exmoor Home Learning - 10/1/25

The children have had a good week settling back into school. We have continued and completed our shape unit in maths. In English, we have started our new sequence based on the book; How to Invent, the children have enjoyed immersing themselves in the book. In computing we started our new unit on data logging, which the children were very interested in and are excited to learn more about.

Home learning plank challenge

I have put a plank challenge on the class blogs for this week. Have a go at holding the plank position each day and ask someone to time it for you. Challenge yourself to hold the plank position for a longer time each day.

This will help you to build strong core muscles to support you with your swimming and gymnastics learning for this half term.

Reading

We expect everyone to be reading at least five times a week. Please see the front of your home learning book for the expectations.

Times Tables

Please practise your times tables all the way up to 12, either by using times tables rockstars, hit the button, my maths or other methods that work for you. We will be doing more and more tests in preparation for the Year 4 times tables test.
