This week the topic is traditional tales and we have been reading 'The Three Little Pigs'.

Activities this week at pre-school:

- Three Little Pigs construction area role play - The children pretended to be the three little pigs and build their own houses. They played with real straw and pretend bricks.
- Sensory tray - The children build a 'brick house' using Duplo and shaving foam.
- Retelling the story - We acted out the story and the children pretended to be the different characters.
- Science experiment - We talked about why the wolf was able to blow away the straw and the sticks but not the bricks. An adult used a hairdryer to test out different materials to see if they would blow away or stay in the same place. The children guessed which materials would move or stay.
- Three little pigs playdough - The children made a house for the toy pigs using the playdough a variety of materials. For example, straw, lollypop sticks and bricks.
- Pig craft - The children made a pig face using pens and tissue paper.

- The children packed a suitcase for the three little pigs by cutting and sticking out different clothes and accessories.
- The children made a picture of their own house by cutting and sticking pictures of windows, doors and roofs etc.

Next week we will be focusing on the story 'Three Billy Goats Gruff'.
