Lundy Class

We have been learning to solve long multiplication problems with and without decimals. In English, we have learnt about how the author of our text - The Nameless Holiday - uses colons to begin descriptive lists. We have been re-visiting expanded noun phrases and investigating why the author uses adverbs to show certainty. We have listened to a composition by Hans Zimmer and drawn our responses. In art, we have reflected on the art and craft work of Anne Loveless.
