Tarka class learning

Well done if you went on a shape hunt at home! We have been impressed with how much the children can remember about 2D and 3D shapes.

Tarka class have learnt to use positional and directional language this week. They enjoyed using the story Rosie's Walk to help with this.

In English, we finished writing our story The Little Yellow Chick... the children realised how difficult it is to be an author!

The children finished their final piece of artwork, a Pablo Picasso style portrait! They used oil pastels to create a bold background and observational drawing skills to sketch their facial features from their photograph.

Home Learning

Write a couple of sentences about what you get up to over the half-term holiday. We will share our news on Monday 4th November.

Do you know what month of the year your birthday is in? We will be learning to order the months of the year after half-term 😊

Reading

Well done to those of you who managed to read 5 times per week, every week this half term! We gave out a small prize to the children who did this 😊 Please keep reading over half term. Have a lovely week!
