Lundy home learning

We have been revising written calculation methods and solving problems involving time, including learning to read and use transport timetables. In English we have started writing a text about wizards in a formal style - some super work so far! We have been looking at a still-life water colour painting by Cezanne and having a go at reproducing it as a sketch - thinking about scale. Then we have practised our water colour painting skills, by mixing colours to match the painting and by using similar brush strokes.
